WE NOMINATE

Mabel Hamilton Wade, one of the dedicated Princeton teachers of our time and the recipient this past June of a "Princeton Prize for Distinguished Secondary School Teaching in the State of New Jersey", who in the academic term just below the Labor Day horizon will be entering upon her 34th year as a pillar of 61-year old Miss Fine's School. With the re-opening of this area's educational institutions, and as Princeton's basic industry re-fires its furnaces, Mrs. Wade - back from a summer sojourn in Europe - personifies the kind of gifted teaching these United States so urgently need in a period of unprecedented challenges.

Wife of the University's Ira O. Wade, founding director of the Special Program in European Civilization, Mrs. Wade, a product of Marietta College (Ohio), Columbia University and French universities, has compiled a compelling record that is punctuated with the achievements of her students rather than with personal kudos. For instance, four of Miss Fine's five American Field Service Scholars have been selected for study in France largely through Mrs. Wade's influence, and, over the years, (long before colleges dreamed up Advanced Placement Programs), her students have been accorded honors standing by leading colleges.

Last June, in qualifying for a $1,250 award established by an anonymous Princeton University alumnus concerned with recognition of "fruitful teaching, devoted service and human as well as professional qualities," Mrs. Wade also won the accolades of her associates for all she has succeeded in accomplishing since joining the Miss Fine's Faculty in 1927. An accomplished administrator as well as head of the Department of French, she has given some 16 years as Faculty Adviser to the Junior Class, the same period to her adopted school's student Social Service Committee and three two-year terms as elected Faculty Representative on the school's Board of Trustees.

At the time of year when parents, and their children, are most articulate about educational opportunities, it is reassuring to note that Mrs. Wade, a member of the Faculty through five successive administrations, frequently heads intra-school committees charged with curricular development, educational standards, student activities and even such mundane matters as publications. Active in a number of professional associations, and often with her husband, with whom she has collaborated in his research on Voltaire, she also lends a hand with school evaluations sponsored by the Middle Atlantic States Association.

The most stirring of tributes was paid to Mrs. Wade in June, 1959, on the occasion of Miss Fine's observance of the 60th anniversary of its founding. "The teaching of French"—so the citation went—"takes on a new dimension in her classes, for, through her scholarship and contagious enthusiasm, she instills not only a knowledge and love of the language and literature of France, but also of its culture, its people and its ways of thinking. Her students love especially the many witty anecdotes which spice her teaching.

For seeking to create in her students a heart-felt respect for the things of the mind; for looking to the year ahead with the same enthusiasm which characterized her initial teaching efforts in the 1920's; for minimizing her own contributions in the on-going development of the educational process; she is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

NEEDED: PLANNING

Experience is Teacher. Blueprints for the future were drawn in both Princeton Borough and one of her neighbors, Lawrence Township, this week and, curiously, one seemed to be benefiting from the other's mistakes. The Borough took action (see story, page 3) to overcome its lack of planning before Suburbia became a reality, while the Township which lies between Princeton and Trenton instituted planning action to prevent comparable problems later on.

It has been predicted often that the entire area linking New York with Washington will eventually grow into a single, unbroken metropolis. Princeton Borough already has developed to such an extent that she can do very little more to contribute to this prediction. Lawrence Township is still largely farmland, but the handwriting is on the wall—so Lawrentians are preparing for the future through planning.

By the end of the current decade, Lawrence Township may be just as crowded as Princeton Borough. Residents of the area apparently have resigned themselves to this idea, indicated by their conspicuous failure to turn out Tuesday evening to question the municipality's Master Plan. A public hearing on the Master Plan attracted only 100 or so citizens, or much less than 1% of the Township's population.

Republican critics of the Democratic-designed Master Plan attributed Tuesday's small showing to the fact that the special session was held at a peak vacation time, but nonpartisans claimed that a similar hearing in midwinter would not produce greater interest. To hear them tell it, Lawrence is going to be part of Suburbia and Lawrentians might as well get used to the idea.

"Parallel" Route Vital. Followers of the Lawrence situation said the turnout might have been three times as large if Province Line Road was still being earmarked as a major Township artery in the future. However, a "parallel" route has been suggested by the Mercer County Planning Board, so the vociferous foes of the original Province Line portion of the Master Plan were not obliged to appear Tuesday evening.

Interestingly and incidentally, Thorn Lord, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, has served as chairman of the Lawrence Planning Board throughout development of the Master Plan. Mr. Lord owns a home on Province Line Road and no doubt has been instrumental in convincing members of the County Planning Board of the desirability of the "parallel" route.

A spokesman for Educational Testing Service, located as close to the Princeton line as any business in Lawrence Township, won the favor of the 100-plus residents on hand when he informed the Township Committee that ETS feels the "parallel" route should be restricted to passenger and service traffic. He said his firm believes it would be improper for the proposed route to be classified as a local street, which would have been the case is Province Line Road had been designated as the major route between Rosedale Road (on which ETS is located) and U.S. 1.

In shaping their Master Plan, Lawrence leaders have taken into account the possibility of a need for apartment houses, such as the 64-unit project okayed in Princeton Borough this week, and have stolen a leaf from Princeton's book of experience by covering this and other related needs in their blueprint for tomorrow. If Lawrence's planners have their way, and it would seem that there is little opposition to them at present, there will be no necessity of zoning changes—as in Princeton Borough's case—when the acreage between Princeton and Trenton joins the Great Metropolis.

KEY CORNER: Property at the southwest corner of the intersection of Harrison St. N. and Franklin Ave. fell in the local spotlight this week as Borough Council endorsed plans for a 64-unit garden-type apartment building there (for details, see story page 3). The project, just a stone's throw from Princeton Township, will be one of the last possible in the Borough, which boasts little "free" land. (Chachowski Photo) last week by Charles Humphrey, 21, of 219 Birch Avenue...after making a turn onto Witherspoon Street from an alley, the bicyclist ran into a car being driven south on Witherspoon by Ronald Smith, 30, of Trenton...the handlebars of the bike struck the right front door of the auto.

Sam Kind, proprietor of La Vake-Reid's, advised Borough police that five wristwatches were taken from a showcase of his jewelry store sometime between 5 p.m. August 12 and 9 a.m. the following day...a total value of $429 was placed on three of the watches, while Mr. Kind said he would hardly give the time of day for the other two...according to the proprietor, there was no sign of forced entry.

On the subject of thefts, Andy's Diner, 173 Nassau Street, was entered this past week and something probably was stolen...police investigators were in doubt because the diner is closed during August, and owner Andy Alvarez was out of town when the h&e occurred...access to the diner was gained through Mr. Alvarez's home, adjoining the place of business...various articles in the house and diner were strewn about by the probable thief.

Ten Years Ago: TOWN TOPICS August 17, 1950—Princeton finally began to feel the effects of a statewide gasoline price war, though there was hardly unanimity among local dealers regarding the course of action to be taken ...some agreed to close "for an indefinite period not longer than eight days," others considered slashing prices from three to five cents a gallon and still others adopted a "wait and see" attitude...the likelihood of a prolonged drought at the gas pumps seemed remote in Princeton.

Having already been allocated 50 units by the Federal Government, the Princeton Housing Authority nonetheless mapped plans to conduct a house-to-house survey in the Borough to see if even more housing might be needed here...final hearings on the installation of parking meters in the Borough met with no public objection, but a number of residents were set to oppose Council's plan to shift the established taxi stand at the corner of Witherspoon and Nassau Streets to the south side of Nassau...the new F. W. Woolworth store at 116-122 Nassau, more than twice the size of its predecessor, confirmed reports that it would open its doors a week hence...contrary to Woolworth's customary policy, but in keeping with "Operation Nassau" requests, the new five-and-ten was fashioning its exterior motif in Colonial style and hanging a smaller-than-standard company sign.

Man of the Week was George William Lone Jr., Treasurer and Business Manager of Princeton Theological Seminary as well as a community-minded volunteer worker and a collector-renovator of antique clocks..."The Darkroom," now totally dark, opened at 162 Nassau, where complete amateurs or experienced photographers were invited to rent darkroom space and make use of extensive equipment and facilities...the University Players, in rehearsal for T.S. Eliot's "The Family Reunion," announced that the cast would include such familiar Princeton names as Karl Light, Lola D'Annunzio, Rayna Sue Klatzkin, Dick Mathews and Robert Chapman, the latter in the dual role of director and actor...Zachary Scott in "Blind Alley" was billed as McCarter Theatre's final offering of the summer...Esther Williams was featured as the "Duchess of Idaho" at the Playhouse, which was anxiously awaiting surefire attraction James Ste-

APARTMENTS APPROVED

Council Permits 64 Units, Borough Council removed the last obstacle to the erection of a group of garden apartments within its boundaries Tuesday night. In a 2-1 decision, it approved the Zoning Board resolution which will allow 64 units to be built on the block bounded by Ewing Street, Franklin Avenue and Harrison Street North.

The apartments are the first to be approved by municipality since Princeton University's multiple-family units near Palmer Stadium were built some 10 years ago. To make the exception, the Council had both to over-rule the zoning ordinance, which calls for single or two-family dwellings in the area where the apartments will be located, and the present Master Plan, which calls for single-family units only in the area.

Considered by Council were the recommendation of the Zoning Board, a report of the Borough's planning consultant, Francis Dodd McHugh, and opinions of the Planning Board members. The Zoning Board favored the action; the Planning Board members, while unable to meet formally, had individually expressed support for the apartments; and the planner had provided the governing body with a list of requirements to be met in case it approved the development.

Councilman Alfred Sorenson, in supporting the Zoning Board resolution, noted that the municipality "would much rather see garden apartments than two-family houses" on the site under consideration. The other backer of the resolution, John B. Redding, said that, as a member of the Planning Board, he felt he should go along with that body's opinion.

The lone dissenter at the meeting, Councilman Richard Colman, said he doubted that the proposed structures will be garden apartments but rather "real apartments." "It is simply a method of crowding more people into the buildings and into the area," he commented. Councilman Dan D. Coyle, although absent, was reported to be in favor of the measure by Mayor Raymond F. Male.

Two Plots Included. Involved are two pieces of land: one-and-a-third acre chunk fronting on Franklin Avenue between Harrison and Ewing Streets, and the other, about a half-acre, in the southwest bend of Ewing Street. The owner, Hilton Realty, has proposed to erect six buildings containing 48 dwelling units on the larger site and three buildings containing 16 dwelling units on the smaller.

According to George H. Sands, units would be of the efficiency apartment type, with about 600 square feet of floor space. Either modern or colonial style will be used, he revealed. (An informal poll of Mayor and Council by Mr. Male showed the group to be definitely in favor of the colonial style.)

Mr. Sands appeared before the Zoning Board in June to request permission for the apartments. When the Board's resolution was presented to the Borough Council, it was referred to the Planning Board for a recommendation, since action would necessitate changes in the Borough's master plan.

The Planning Board could not manage a quorum for a formal meeting, but individually supported the project. It also received the report from Mr. McHugh recommending new front, side and rear yard clearences; coverage and floor area requirements; minimum lot areas per dwelling units for occupancy by families of various sizes; and habitable floor area per dwelling unit for occupancy by families of various sizes.

Conditions Left Out. Investigation proved that the Borough Council could not legally attach the planner's requirements to the Zoning Board's resolution. Since Mr. Sands urged immediate action and his plans met with four of the seven proposed requirements (all but the yard clearances), the Council approved the Zoning Board's ordinance without changes.

On one point, the widening of Ewing Street to improve traffic flow to and from the apartments, Mr. Sands agreed to help the Borough. He will dedicate a five-foot strip along the street to permit the widening.

Unlike the Borough's other multiple-family dwellings, the proposed garden apartments will be built with complete units on one floor. Mr. Sands explained that this is the trend now, with all architects recommending single floor apartments as against two-floor apartments because people normally dislike to climb stairs within their apartment.

Thus far, architect Richard C. Chorlton has prepared only preliminary plans. The final drawings, with complete utilities included, will not be ready for a least 30 days. Mr. Sands hopes to have construction started by October, with some apartments at least "closed-in" by winter.

In other action, the Council expressed its intent to deed a piece of property on the corner of Clay and John Streets to the Housing Authority, or recreational, or park, usage.

It also heard a letter from the Princeton Post 76, American Legion, requesting that the War Memorial at the corner of Stockton Street and Bayard Lane be cleaned and repaired. Although the Council agreed to see that the cement work was completed immediately, it did not take action on the sand blast cleaning requested.

Finally, the Council introduced ordinance for sidewalks on both sides of Hamilton Avenue between Chestnut Street and Harrison Street North, with the cost of $9000 to be borne equally by the Borough and the benefiting property owners. A public hearing will be held at a special meeting set for Monday, September 26.

BOROUGH PLANNING AID

State to Continue Assistance. In an action which is particularly timely for Princeton Borough, the State of New Jersey has announced a program of assistance for continuing planning at the municipal level. This means the State will continue to help pay for the Borough's planning consultant after the original 18-month assistence agreement ends next month, according to Mayor Raymond F. Male.

State assistance for local planning was initially designed as a one-shot affair, Mr. Male explained. Now, the State has agreed to continue to pay a part of the costs of planning for a period of up to five years, although the portion it pays will decrease in successive years.

Under the original contract between the Borough and the State, the State has paid for half the cost of the municipality's planning consultant. This figure will be reduced to 40 per cent the next year, going down by another 10 per cent each succeeding year.

Mayor Male stressed that the program of continuing assistance, which he personally urged the State government to undertake, "not only gives us some funds but also gives us the resources of the State planning staff, which is the best of any state in the country." For example, he noted that through the State planning staff, Princeton is able to learn how other municipalities are attacking their problems.

In announcing the plan, Commissioner of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development Salvatore A. Bontempo noted that it is the "only genuine alternative to a policy of muddling through." He said that the continuing program is designed to provide "a permanent planning staff which could derive feasible and effective project objectives from the broad objectives contained within the master plan."

In addition to the continuing planning assistance, the State has also announced a program for urban renewal aid. As explained by Commissioner Bontempo, this will help communities pay for "Community Renewal Programs," which will be less general than master plans but not as specific as actual projects.

The Borough probably will not be able to benefit from this latter program in the near future, since it is already well beyond the "Community Renewal Program" on its own urban renewal project, Mayor Male pointed out. He said, however, that it will be of importance in helping the municipality "meet the problems of the future."

PRINCETON TOWNSHIP

IN THE MIDDLE OF PRINCETON, "RESTAURANT ROW": Less than a city block separates seven restaurants on Witherspoon Street these days, and the presence of these numerous eateries is emphasized by the fact that some of them are currently being renovated while others have only recently come on the Princeton scene. They are (1) Lahiere's Restaurant, No. 7 (see story this page); (2) The Grotto, featuring Italian-American cuisine; (3) The Lamplighter, scheduled to reopen after vacation; (4) King's Court, expanding from Witherspoon Terrace to the "main drag"; (5) Colonial Restaurant, known to the "natives" as the G&L; (6) Princeton Tea Garden (see article next week); and (7) Grigg's Imperial Restaurant, No. 58. The gentleman identified by (8), incidentally, is a worker on the Lahiere's renovation job and is afforded recognition only because he is carrying his lunch, prepared on non-Witherspoon premises. (Chachowski Photo) will henceforth be restricted to a half-dozen bedrooms on the third floor.

On the less glamorous but nonetheless significant side of things, Mr. Christian noted that he has installed new kitchen equipment, highlighted by doors which keep noise and odors out of the dining areas and a dumbwaiter which should aid the waitresses toiling upstairs. New tile has been laid on the kitchen floor and new cabinets have been built in the kitchen and at the front of Lahiere's for the cash register and other accessories.

Tower Construction Company of Princeton was responsible for the stairway and other alterations, while Nassau Renovation Service installed the kitchen equipment, new flooring and bar sections.

STORM HITS EDGE OF TOWN

Fells Trees, Hurts Motorist. A short, tornado-like storm blew through the southern edge of Princeton Monday evening, felling trees and injuring a motorist on Route 1. At least seven trees went down in the blow, one of which crumpled the roof of the car of Winfield H. Wetherbee of Trenton.

The 80-foot tree fell across Mr. Wetherbee's car on the Brunswick Pike near Clarksville at 5:15 p.m. He escaped with only a cut on his forehead, but his passenger, John W. Mirsch, also of Trenton, was taken to Princeton Hospital with a fractured right shoulder and a possible concussion. Both men are employed at the RCA Laboratories on Route 1.

Although the storm virtually missed both Trenton and Princeton Borough, it downed enough trees to block four roads in the southern Princeton area either partially or totally. The tree which hit Mr. Wetherbee's car plus the top of another on Route 1 stopped traffic in the southbound lane of that road for half an hour, while others caused trouble on the Princeton Pike, Quaker Road and Route 206.

The Princeton Pike and Quaker Road were not cleared until 2 a.m. Tuesday and Route 206 remained partially blocked until late at night. Although a tree fell on Province Line Road near the canal bridge, Lawrence Township police reported traffic was not stopped.

A total of six trees went down on Quaker Road, according to Township police. At least one car was trapped between the trees and couldn't move until crews removed the obstructions.

The tree blocking Princeton Pike south of the Stony Brook bridge took electrical wires with it. Clearing operations were delayed for over three and a half hours while waiting for Public Service to remove the hazard of live wires, Township police reported.

remark that proprietor Joseph Christian has made noteworthy progress without going "too modern."

"After more than forty years here on Witherspoon Street, I felt it was time for a few changes," Mr. Christian explained this week. "My idea was to create more comfort and improved facilities for the people of Princeton without destroying the tradition we have built up over the years. I believe we have accomplished just what we planned."

On entering Lahiere's main door at 7 Witherspoon, customers will see immediately the most sweeping change on the ground floor. It is a magnificent, curved stairway, complete with burgundy red carpeting and a white wrought-iron railing, where the corner bar used to stand. The bar, now much more accessible for waitresses as well as consumers, has been positioned along the rear wall, with only two tables eliminated as a result of the move. Picturesquely, a spotlight now shines through milk glass behind the bar.

Another important downstairs (and upstairs) feature, which Lahiere's regulars will realize in short order, is the newly-installed air conditioning system. "We've needed it a long while," the boss confided. "It should make the whole restaurant a more pleasant place to dine."

Upstairs Ready Soon. The second floor at Lahiere's, where some persons have admittedly feared to tred in the past, should prove a joy in the future. Atop the fancy stairway, Princetonians will find a handsome vestibule (with black-and-white quarry tile) for coat-hanging and reservation-awaiting purposes. Of greater importance to the ladies who have dared to venture upstairs, before, there will be a brand-new powder room at the head of the steirs.

Mr. Christian's proudest innovation, scheduled for completion in about 10 days, will be unveiled on the second floor where a large, semi-private dining room formerly functioned on crowded occasions. There, patrons will be able to enjoy—on all occasions, noon as well as nighttime—a handsome, new dining room, with trimmings that include wall-to-wall carpeting, a six-stool corner bar, soothing cherry panelling and comfortable seating accommodations for 50 diners.

Despite the large-scale program of change upstairs, there will still be private dining facilities for 40 persons in another new second-floor room, made possible by the departure of a pair of bedrooms. The hotel part of Lahiere's

News Of The THEATRES

THE PLAYHOUSE

From the Terrace. (August 17-23) is little more than an overly long, second-rate novel transformed into an overly long, second-rate movie. The tale of marriage for money followed by marital infidelity begins at an agonizingly slow pace and is still in second gear at the end, a good 144 minutes later. In short, the changes made by screenwriter Ernest Lehman and producer-director, Mark Robson in John O'Hara's novel haven't significantly aided the overall effect.

The hero, Alfred Easton (Paul Newman), still comes home from the war (only it's World War II, rather than World War I, as it was in the book) to an unhealthy family situation, finding his mother (Myrna Loy) a drunk and his father (Leon Ames) as overbearing as ever. He deserts his Pennsylvania background for the big city and its attendant society, finally marrying the beautiful daughter of a large corporation executive. But the neauveau-riche Newman and his wife (Joanne Woodward) don't get along. She begins to play fast and loose with other men, taking pains to make sure her husband is aware of this, while he finds true love in the arms of a sultry limpid eyed beauty from a Pennsylvania coal town (Ina Balin). It's all a very standard story, and not particularly moral.

While all of the acting is relatively competent Miss Woodward should be singled out for her excellent representation of the type of girl not to marry. The production is in CinemaScope and DeLuxe color.

Elmer Gantry (August 24-30) appeared as a novel in 1927. Now, 33 years later, Sinclair Lewis' tale of a hypocritical revivalist has been made into a movie. Any relation between the two is superficial at best.

The most significant change wrought by director-adaptor Richard Brooks has been in the title character. For example, Gantry no longer entertains doubts before going out to pound the Bible. Instead, any mention of a specific denomination have been removed (Lewis' preacher was first a Baptist, then a Methodist) and Gantry is shown only after he has begun his mission. Whether these and other changes are for better or worse depends markedly upon the viewer's attitude towards the original work. One who found Lewis' Gantry believable (even if not particularly likable) will probably find the movie hero less so. On the other hand, at least some individuals who disliked the original Gantry will be happier with the film version. Those who can maintain a relative indifference towards Gantry himself will find Brooks has tightened and speeded up what was a lengthy, wandering story.

The movie stars Burt Lancaster, as the revivalist who still occasionally indulges in the pleasures of the flesh; Jean Simmons, as the true-believing Sister Sharon; Shirley Jones, as Lulu Baines, one of Gantry's early conquests who returns to cause considerable trouble; Dean Jagger, as business manager of the revival troupe; Arthur Kennedy, as the newspaperman; and a cast of hundreds of sinners who find salvation through Gantry. In color, the production runs for nearly three hours.

ROMBERG OPERETTA OPENS

"New Moon" at Lambertville. Sigmund Romberg's operetta "The New Moon" opened Tuesday for a one-week stand at St. John Terrell's Music Circus in Lambertville. The tale of gay, eighteenth century New Orleans stars Claire Alexander and Robert Brooks and will play through this Sunday.

Besides Romberg's score, the operetta features book and lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein II, Frank Mandel and Laurence Schwab. Songs included in "The New Moon" are "Lover, Come Back to Me," "Softly, as in a Morning Sunrise," "One Kiss," "Wanting You" and "Stout-Hearted Men."

The star of the Lambertville production, Miss Alexander, has appeared in a number of famous operettas, including "Merry Widow," "Song of Norway" and many Gilbert and Sullivan favorites. She has appeared as concert soloist with the Pittsburgh Symphony and has toured with the Savoyards company.

Louis Macmillan is directing the operetta, with Edward Earle staging the dances. The sets and costumes were directed by Robert Soule and Rudy Donato, respectively. Robert McNames directs the Music Circus orchestra.

NEW COMEDY

At Bucks Playhouse. "Happy Ending," a new comedy by Nelise Child, opened at the Bucks County Playhouse this week. Ruth Chatterton, Conrad Nagel and Pert Kelton share top billing in the production.

The play concerns a group of residents of a clubhouse for senior citizens. Miss Chatterton, in the role of a spinster governess, meets Conrad Nagel, who plays an aging college professor, who believes that "there should be lawyers to protect parents from over-protective children." As the relationship between the two matures, it becomes apparent that it is never too late for love.

Mr. Nagel recently appeared in a new film with Henry Fonda, and KISS ME, SARA: That's Mark Wallace's plea as he brushes up on his Shakespeare with Sara Rhodes in "Kiss Me, Kate," current offering of the University Players at Murray Theatre. They are featured as Petruchio and Katherine in the popular Cole Porter musical comedy.

was seen this season on Broadway with Cornelia Otis Skinner and Cyril Ritchard in "The Pleasure of His Company." Miss Kelton arrived at the Bucks theater directly from the Broadway productions of "The Music Man," and "Greenwillow," while Miss Chatterton has returned to the stage after several years of successful novel-writing.

CHALLENGE WELL-MET

By Little Players. The Little Players' presentation of three one-act plays, given last week end at Princeton Country Day School, was an impressive example of a group of people rising to meet a challenge. These young players had three difficult plays to work with, an auditorium which was too large and acoustically inadequate, and a lack of funds which cramped them on the technical side of the production. The job they did was truly commendable.

The acting in all three plays was encouraging in its fine quality. All the major roles were handled competently and, at times, with considerable style and polish, and the level did not fall off appreciably in the supporting roles, as so often happens in productions by groups of this age and experience.

In Synge's "Riders to the Sea", Betzie Parker was convincingly old and broken as the mother of six sons, all of whom were eventually lost to the sea. Miss Parker's voice and carriage conveyed the despair, superstition and mystery of the life of this Irish family in a moving fashion. Cosy Spitzer produced an especially vivid portrayal of the older daughter, and she and Barbi Alden (as the younger sister) performed in close rapport to keep the play moving.

The second offering was Shakespeare's "Pyramus and Thisby." This amusing little piece from the fifth act of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" was done with sparkle and wit, and the obvious enjoyment of the players was conveyed to the audience in every line and every bit of action. Bob Blumenfeld portrayed the mock-tragic figure of Pyramus with great style and presence, while John Thorpe was a riotous success as the other half of the star-crossed pair. Peter Vajk, who handled major roles in all three plays, was aptly fluent as the prologue, and Virginia Corbett, David Groo, Bill Vajk and Gordon Lutz were entertaining as members of the court observing the play-within-a-play.

A Few Problems. Eugene O'Neill's "Ile" was also acted well, but with a few problems. Peter Vajk played the part of Captain Keeney smoothly enough, but did not communicate the towering strength and power over others that this part requires. Linda Almgren filled the role as the captain's wife with great vitality and sensitivity, although a few of her lines were a bit hurried and lost. Bob Blumenfeld appeared briefly but effectively as the Steward, and continued to impress many in the audience with his acting ability. David Groo and Bill Vajk proved able in support.

This entire program exhibited determination, hard work and imagination on the part of the director, James Thorpe. Serving as producer and scenic designer as well, Thorpe has shown great promise in many aspects of the theatre world. His handling of the actors was ambitious and practically flawless, and his stage design showed professional touches, though it was seriously handicapped by a lack of adequate physical equipment.

The stage was quite bare in spots, and generally a little too large for the settings required

LEOPARD WOMAN

From Chambers Street. Possibly the last place you would look for a Leopard Woman, and yet there she is, in Edith's, of all places, seductive as all get out and machine-washable, which is more than some of them are.

This leopard beauty is white with black leopard spots. It's a hostess gown in rayon and cotton with a soft, draped look. Front is cut gently up to about shin height, back is to the floor, hanging from a considerable amount of waist fullness.

The gown is a step-in one fastened across the waist with a sash which ties in a front bow. Sleeves are raglan, three-quarters, and the gown pulls together in such a way that the neckline becomes a deep V. This one is for a jade cigarette holder and not for mending the kiddies' socks.

Edith's also has, for less festive occasions, a washable wool flannel navy robe, short, with bright red bands all around the collarless neckline, the front and the hem, around the deep "U" pockets and the cuffs. And then there are two pale blue washable flannel robes, one somewhat deeper in shade than the other, both piped narrowly with blue satin. The style is the round-collared duster variety. You'll like the girlish one with pink roses embroidered on collar and cuff.

The gown of the fall season is a long one with permanently pleated full skirt and silky embroidery at the bodice. There is a "U" front and back.

Satin-Glo nylon tricot, in white, makes a panty, slip and gown that won't cling to other garments, as nylon itself sometimes will. It's a light-weight fabric which looks almost like satin. The same satiny richness appears in a woven fabric combining dacron, silk and nylon. The gown, in waltz or full length, has a modest, lace-edged "V" front and back. There is an opulent champagne colored slip with ecru lace ($8.95), and one in pale blue.

Forget-me-nots cluster in bright blue on a white girdle which looks about big enough for a chihuahua. Saucy blue garters. There is a matching cotton bra. The same set appears in white with coffee-colored flowers, but that blue is what you'll remember. Bra is $2.95, girdle or panty girdle is $8.95. Lily of France is the maker.

Edith's favorite bra of the summer is, of course, that one without any back at all. A triumph of contemporary American engineering genius, it consists of stresses and strains that operate in equilibrium to provide control where you want it, and nothing at all where you want nothing at all. Hook its back straps to the top of your girdle—that's how you get no back. Comes with a halter attachment, too.

PAID YOUR TUITION?

School-time at Bellows. To get into Bellows these days you have to have last year's report card and a bursar's receipt. But these matters are academic. Let's proceed to the business at hand.

Sub-teens are served in this shop by an excellent collection of two and three piece outfits. For example, there's a unit consisting of brown and tan plaid hip-stitched pleated cotton skirt, tan roll-up sleeve shirt and collarless tunic which fits slimly over the skirt. Tunic is plaid like the skirt, and ever thing is drip-dry and the price is $14.95.

Dark printed skirts, full and impish, combine with solid color shirts. Tartens appear in full or kilt length, ancient or modern colors. There are magnificent heirloom Shetland, splendid enough to be passed on to little sister when she grows up. There's char green, char brown, char blue and the standard Shetland

KNIT ALL THE WAY

College girls will squeal—we are assuming that college girls still squeal because they did when we were one—over the coat now available to all scholars at Bellows. At least, it looks like a coat. But on the other hand, it bears a strong resemblance to a sweater. As a matter of cold fact, it is both.

This garment, knit in palest beige-bone furry yarn, is a full length coat, complete with lining, long sleeves and an extremely flattering stand-away collar. It—looks rather like a sweater that's been on the rack, so to speak, and stretched to the limit of endurance except that there is no hint of strain or pull. It's all just big soft yarn. There may be a rib in the knit: we didn't part the hairs to take a look. Price $150.

"But look at it this way, daddy: it's an INVESTMENT!"

by "Riders to the Sea" and "Ile." The minimum scenery for "Pyramus and Thisby" was, on the other hand, quite effective. The costumes, by Gordon Lutz and Barbi Alden, were simple and tasteful, with considerable flair in the various concoctions for "Pyramus."

John Howland's lighting was also simple but sound, with some interesting and illustrative effects in the final part of "Ile."

The program was, on the whole, a most satisfying one. It was well-balanced as far as the selection of plays, and the actual production was handled in a manner that makes it possible for one to hope that there may be a group of interested and competent young people who will save the sinking local theatre ship. This group has the talent and the determination; proper equipment and backing might bring exciting results.

PUBLIC LECTURES SLATED

For Music Seminar. Two public lectures, to be held on August 22 and 29, are included in the program for the second annual Seminar for Advanced Musical Studies which opened on the Princeton University campus this week. The lectures, which will begin at 2:30 p.m. in McCosh Hall on the campus, will be free of charge.

Luciano Berio will analyze "Form in Music" on the 22nd, while Felix Galimir, in the concluding public address of the 1960 seminar, will speak on "Contemporary String Technique." The Seminar plans also include a public concert which will feature compositions by members of the faculty. Clarinetist Jerome Rosen and The Lenox Quartet are among the 10 "resident artists" who will perform at the public concert, to be held at 8:30 p.m. September 1.

Twenty-eight of the country's most outstanding professional musicians, who have completed their educations, are attending the Seminar this year. The study program is financed by a grant from the Fromm Music Foundation of Chicago, and is directed by Princeton Prof. Roger Sessions, a noted composer.

shades. Sweaters are fully-fashioned. (The slip-ons are good for boys or girls, but don't tell brother.)

Younger girls, 7-14, will want the light-weight British woolen suits in District Check or Houndstooth check, styled with sharply pleated skirts and boxy jackets with velvet collars. There is a knit suit, too, in deep royal with a black line overlay.

The two-piecer appears again in this size group. Look carefully at a wool plaid box-pleated skirt in gold and grey with a collarless overblouse. The same general style has been used in a solid blue tunic-and-skirt combination with gold trim, and a navy box-skirt-pleated with square neck tunic and white buttons.

You're familiar with eyelash fabric, of course. Wait till you see the dirndl skirt for little girls. It's eyelashes all over, with more on the mock straps that go across the solid color vest.

The girls who go to collect will like the idea of Hong Kon sweaters (cable-stitch, ballbuttons) in wool, at $12.95. They come in gold, red, blue, mustard—all kinds of shades.

Sweaters and skirts co-ordinate in this department, where the favorite color for co-ordinating seems to be "Vintage"—a kind of deep tomato red. A sweater in this shade (angora and lambswool) rides on top of a skirt made in oatmeal and tomato, if you don't mind the corner cupboard description. The same skirt is done in blues. It's a basket-weave, uneven, with contrasting yarns running in and out the weave from belt to hem.

The college girl's best friend may well be a $39.95 suit, in demure city grey, or dusky country tweed. Most of them are soft suits, cut with a wide, pointed collar, stubby little jacket and sometimes crushable leather belt.

The tunic top, so prominent in the sub-teen and girls' departments, shows up here, with variations. A striped pleated skirt has a solid tunic top, which you may also wear over a straight, sheath skirt. This tunic is deeply bloused, with drawstring, and there's a grey-green shirt. We saw it in grey-green and white.

The fannel culotte, like a deeply pleated skirt, comes in camel or grey. The kiltie, called a "knee-tickler" in some undignified quarters, comes in char brown and camel plaid.

Wearing knee socks this fall? Buy a Scotch fashie to draw attention to your knee. It's a garter with a pair of notched pennants flaring out from its edge. Red, green, etc. In sizes for big or little girls.

ADVERTISING VOLUME is based on results. That's why TOWN TOPICS carries more classified advertising each week in the year than all other Princeton papers combined

Unsolved Mystery?

Borough Police aren't checking back through their records but there's a good chance that a firearm uncovered this past week from a torn-down bedroom wall above Lahiere's Restaurant, 7 Witherspoon St., didn't become entombed by accident. The English-made pistol, vintage 1840, apparently was secreted by someone with a motive for hiding it.

Joseph Christian, proprietor of the establishment currently undergoing extensive renovations, isn't too worried about whether some errant lover — or maybe dashing friend of Andrew Jackson — came a cropper 120 years ago, or shortly after the building rose as one of Princeton's first. He merely thinks the weapon adds another interesting chapter to the history of his eatery, and he's looking forward to the clean-up job by gunsmith Charles H. Magers of Province Line Road who will put it in shape for mounting at Lahiere's.

"KATE" SPARKLES"

Players Give Lively Show. The fitting climax to the University Players' 1960 season, "Kiss Me, Kate," gives Princeton audiences a welcome change of pace from the somewhat heavy fare offered earlier in the season.

The show has plenty of bounce, handled competently by a well-organized cast under the capable direction of Milton Lyon, executive director of McCarter's new Center for the Performing Arts. Top credit goes to Richard Cummings who miraculously makes a piano sound like an orchestra.

The quality of the singing comes as a pleasant surprise. Sara Rhodes and Mark Wallace carry out the demanding lead roles with gusto and the rafters of Murray ring with their tones. Karen Duke, as Bianca, is less successful as far as her voice is concerned, but she plays dumb vamp role well and gives "Why Can't You Behave" the proper overtones.

Murray's small stage is occasionally handicapped by a surfeit of minor players who intrude on the main action and detract from the dancing. Anita Lori and Curtis Hood are responsible for the choreography, and Mr. Hood's dances are notable high spots of the evening. His Lucentio-Bill Calhoun strikes just the right note of geiety and poignance.

Show Moves Smoothly. An essential part of the well-paced musical is the rapid shift of scene and locale. Veteran Murray playgoers need not hold their collective breaths during "Kiss Me, Kate," for the lights go up and down on cue, the scenery is in its proper place at the right time, and the curtain does what it should. It is a far cry from Broadway, but who cares?

Credit in these all-important departments goes to Betty Matta for the delightful sets, evocative of a Shakespearean Italy, and Bill Pierce for the lighting. The costumes by Deidre Cartier are colorful, and well put together.

The marvelous gangster roles are superlatively played by Francis Dux and Joseph Ragno. Mr. Dux' remarkable facility in the comic field is again underscored in "Kiss Me, Kate." His plastic face is remolded along "tough" lines this time, and his Brooklyn-Chicago accent is impeccable. The pair was brought back for two encores of "Brush Up Your Shakespeare" Tuesday night.

As the shrew who is tamed on and off-stage, Miss Rhodes has an incredibly athletic part which she dispatches with ease. Her appearance in the final period of dishevelment, with her red hair streaming over her eyes, is a masterpiece. Her dressing room solo in the first act, "So In Love," is admirably rendered, and the duet with Mr. Wallace, "Wunderbar," is a wonderful illustration of the art of upstaging. Her rendition of "I Hate Men" is superb.

Songs Well Executed. Mr. Wallace does very well by his material: "Where is the Life Which Late I Lead," "I've Come to Wive it Wealthily in Padua," and, of course, the title song. He is completely believable as the handsome actor, devoted to the theatre, who WINS his woman.

The quartet (Katherine, Bianca, Petruchio and Lucentio) literally make Murray's stage the map of "little Italy." They "open in Venice" with decreasing enthusiasm, and captivating the audience completely.

"Another Opening" and "It's Too Darn Hot" suffer from an overcrowded stage, but help create the proper atmosphere. Roy Bacon, Joseph Fitchett and James Carruthers give the latter the right punch, and should inspire a change in Murray's air-conditioning system.

"Kate" to Run Two Weeks. Emulating last year's successful two-week run of "The Boy Friend," the current production will be given this Thursday through Saturday, and next Monday through Saturday. The Monday night policy of two tickets for the price of one will prevail on August 22, and one hopes it will not result in the oversellout situation that occurred last week with "Six Characters."

This year's University Players schedule has not produced a standout production such as 1959's "Waiting for Gndot." Tipping the scales to the plus side, however, is 1960's choice of material. Instead of relying completely on the tried-and-true authors (Shaw, Shakespeare, Synge and Molnar), the Players have plunged fearlessly-sometimes too much so-into modern plays which seldom receive an airing.

The opening play, "Epitaph for George Dillon", is the first example of such a topnotch 1960 contribution, with "The Prodigal" and "Enemy of the People" following close behind. Despite occasional inadequacies, "Six Characters" and the three Ionesco one-acters were satisfying theatre.

"Major Barbara" provided a change in theme, and "The Underpants" was the only dud in the group—a respectable average. Had the Players chosen a good comedy, the season would have been well-balanced. The entire organization deserves a hearty round of applause, and we hope many encores are forthcoming.

SEXTET TO APPEAR

At Lambertville Music Circus. The J. J. Johnson Sextet will appear at St. John Terrell's Music Circus, Lambertville, on Monday evening. Time for the show is 8:30, and will be the eighth in the series of Monday Night Jazz Specials at the Music Mountain Big Top.

Winner of first place on trombone on every major jazz poll here and abroad since 1955, J. J. Johnson was this year voted "the greatest trombonist ever" by Leanard Feather's Encyclopedia Yearbook of Jazz. Born in Indianapolis, Indiana, Jay became interested in the trombone while still in high school and joined several local bands when he found the time to perform with them.

Upon graduation, Johnson joined a traveling band led by "Snookum" Russell, and his next job was with the Benny Carter Orchestra, after which he moved to the famed Count Basie Orchestra where he played for nearly two years. Subsequently, the now-famous trombonist went overseas with an all-star jazz group to play for servicemen in Japan, Korea, the Philippines and the Hawaiin Island. Combining with Kai Winding, the combo became known as "Jay and Kai." Following his stint abroad, he formed his own jazz group, now know as J. J. Johnson Sextet.

Tickets for all Music Circus attractions may be obtained by calling the box office at EXport 7-1500. August 29 will be the last in the series of Monday night Jazz Specials, with Maynard Ferguson and his orchestra appearing in Lambertville.

MUSICAL TO OPEN

At Lambertville. "West Side Story," the Broadway hit musical, will begin a two-week engagement at St. John Terrell's Music Circus in Lambertville on Tuesday. The play will run through Sunday, September 4.

"West Side Story," based on a conception of Jerome Robbins, has music by Leonard Bernstein and lyrics by Stephen Sondheim, who also wrote the lyrics for "Gypsy." Janice Lothian, who appeared at Lambertville earlier this season as Julie Jordan in "Carousel," returns to the Circus stage to play Maria, a kind of modern Juliet, while James Tushar will play opposite her as the Montague of the tenements. Others who will play featured roles are Edward Earel, Larry Maldonado, Haughton Jones and Neal Arsenal.

Louis Macmillian will direct the production, while Robert Soule is designing the sets and Rudy Donato the costumes. Musical direct is Robert McNamee and Mr. Earle, in addition to his part in the play, is in charge of choreography. "The New Moon," the current attraction at the Music Circus, will play through Sunday.

last week's advertisement for The Furniture Barn, it was run in good faith. We definitely meant that the Princeton Circle farm has some terrific bargains in summer furniture, unpainted furniture and new mattresses. As a matter of fact, we were so excited by the buys ourselves that we inadvertently substituted "popular" for "poplar" (a logical error, in view of the offer) and "9" for "a" (that one, we can't figure out).

SUCCESSFUL WEEK

For Window Breakers. Windows were broken last week in Princeton apparently just for the thrill of it. Police report that in each instance there was no sign of any attempted entry.

Two windows were broken last Tuesday evening in the rear of Vaughn & Rocknak, service station at 235 Nassau Street. The following day, George Mulheron, manager of the Sunoco Station at the corner of Nassau and Murray Place, told police that a window in the rear of his statio leading to a wash rack had been broken.

The next broken-window report was received by police Tuesday when Walter Conover of Nassau Motors reported that an office window had been broken. While investigating this latest report, police discovered two more windows had been broken at the Princeton Barber Shop across the street from Nassau Motors.

CANDIDATES ENDORSE

University Stand on Traffic. Robert van de Velde and Gordon Waldron, Democratic candidates for Borough Council, last week endorsed Princeton University's position with regard to Township and Borough traffic problems. In a recent letter to the governing bodies of the two municipalities, Robert F. Goheen, president of Princeton University, supported the construction of a Harrison Street Bridge, recommended several other traffic-diverting solutions, and offered financial support for the potential changes.

Mr. van de Velde and Mr. Waldron declared that they were happy that Princeton University "had publicly and energetically entered the ranks of those seeking solutions for Princeton's growing traffic problems." Agreeing that the problem could not be entirely settled by the two municipalities most affected because the solution also involves State, counties and other municipalities, the two candidates called for a continuing attack on the problem "before it completely overwhelms the Borough and Township."

It is satisfying, the candidates asserted, to find the University, whose voice is respected throughout the state, "clearly making its voice heard," and "generally offering to assist the physical and financial accomplishment of the desired solution." Speaking at a meeting of the Princeton Democratic Club's Steering Committee, Mr. van de Velde said he was opposed to widening streets in the Borough because this would only give "permanent status" to a bad situation.

He said he was pleased to note that the University did not advocate widening Harrison Street, urging instead the completion of Route 206-A, the proposed bypass east of the Township. Mr. Waldron said the increasing truck traffic on Nassau Street is "seriously detrimental" to shopping in that area, and both candidates expressed the hope that the two municipalities would join the University in mapping a vigorous campaign to win State approval, as well as support of neighboring municipalities and counties, for a permanent solution to the traffic problem.

HARRISON BRIDGE URGED

Hy Joint Planning Boards. A resolution requesting action by the county on the proposed Harrison Street Bridge will be presented to the Borough Council and the Township committee by the Planning Boards of the two municipalities. The resolution was passed at a joint session of the Planning Boards.

In addition to calling for "all deliberate speed" on the Harrison Street Bridge, it requests the county to speed construction of the loop road between Mercer Street and Harrison Street. Another resolution will be presented to ask the State Highway Department to announce as soon as possible the actual location of Route 206 Alternate.

The joint session was the second of a series of meetings by the two Planning Boards designed to both assure coordination of the Township and Borough master plans and to present a united front to the County and State in support of road construction. To further increase coordination, the Boards have agreed to exchange official representatives who would sit as permanent non-voting members at each other's meetings.

Representing the Borough Planning Board at the joint session were Chairman Martin Beck, Arthur T. Brokaw, Webster Dodge, Bryan Moore and Francis Dodd McHugh. Chairman Samuel Frothingham, Leonard Johnson, Hans K. Sander, Gerald Breese, John S. Mount and attorney Gordon D. Griffin were attending for the Township. Also, Ricardo A. Mestres, vice-president of Princeton University, was present to represent to emphasize the University's interest in the project.

PLEADS NO DEFENSE

To Lottery Charge. In criminal court, Andrews Hatcher, 60, of 138 Birch Avenue, was fined $50 for illegal possession of numbers slips and $25 for being drunk and disorderly. Hatcher pleaded no defense to both charges.

Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr., who administered the fines, also placed Hatcher on one year's probation for each of the two charges. Patrolman Joseph D. Hagadorn was the complainant.

LIBERIAN TO SPEAK

At Kiwanis Luncheon. Dr. Dosumu-Johnson, Deputy Permanent Representative of Liberia to the United Nations and Charge d'Affaires for that nation to the international body, will speak at the Kiwanis Club's luncheon meeting scheduled for 12:15 Thursday. His subject will be "Responsibility of the United States and Christendom in the Republic of Liberia."

In 1959 Dr. Johnson was appointed Adviser to the President of Liberia on African Affairs, an office he still holds. The Liberian delegate graduated from Lincoln University in 1933, as a political science major, earned his Ph.D. from Columbia University's School of Public Law in 1937 and subsequently taught at the Liberian College of Liberel Arts and Science.

The chairman in 1955 of Liberia's delegation to the first conference on the Peaceful uses of Atomic Energy in Geneva, Switzerland, Dr. Johnson has served on the Liberian delegations to the Conference of Independent African States and on the delegation from his country to the All-African Peoples Conference. He was formerly director of Higher Education and Textbook research for his nation.

Obituaries

Postell Nicholes Jr., 46, of 35 Battle Road, died August 13 in Princeton Hospital after a brief illness. He was a senior research assistant with the DuPont Company at its Parlin Research Laboratory.

Before assuming his present position, he was a research chemist and assistant director of production of the photo products department with DuPont. He gained his PhD degree from the University of North Carolina in 1938.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nancy Coughenour Nicholes; a son, Postell Nicholes 3d; three daughters, Elizabeth, Carol and Nancy; his father, Postell Nicholes Sr. of Charleston, S.C.; and two sisters, Mrs. E. D. Jenkins of Charleston, and Mrs. W. D. Hamlin of Greensboro, N. C.

The Rev. Charles G. Newbery of Trinity Church officiated at the service, held at the church. Interment was in Charleston, with local arrangements under the direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

Dr. Oswald Veblen, 80, of Herrontown Road, died August 10 of a heart attack while on vacation in Brooklin, Me. Associated with Princeton University for 27 years, he was internationally known as a mathematician. In July 1957, he and his wife gave 81 acres of their property on Herrontown Road to the county as a public arboretum. The tract's value was placed at $154,000.

Dr. Veblen came to Princeton in 1905, after two years as an associate in mathematics at the University of Chicago. In 1910, he was named Fine Professor of Mathematics, a post he held until his retirement in 1932. That year he became the first professor of mathematics at the Institute for Advanced Study, and retired in 1950.

In 1957, Dr. Veblen received an honorary Doctor of Science degree from Princeton, and was named TOWN TOPICS' "Man of the Week" on that occasion. He was cited as a "giant of geometrics out of the West," who was called to "help establish Princeton as one of the great mathematical centers of the world."

A nephew of Thorstein Veblen, the economist, he obtained his bachelor's degree from the University of Iowa in 1898, and the same degree from Harvard in 1900. He gained his PhD from the University of Chicago in 1903.

Among his contributions in the field of geometry was the analysis situs, a mathematical expression of physical differences. He published many volumes on mathematics during his lifetime.

A member of many learned societies in Europe and this country, Dr. Veblen was president of the American Mathematical Society from 1923 to 1924. He was a major in the Army Ordnance Department during World War I, and served with the office of the Chief of Ordnance in an advisory capacity during 1923 and 1924.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Mary Dixon Richardson Veblen, and two sisters. Interment was at the convenience of the family.

Mrs. Carrie B. Weaver, 86, of 7 Center Street, Hopewell, died August 12 at her home. The widow of William H. Weaver, she leaves a daughter, Miss Roma Weaver of Hopewell, and a brother, Harry Bush of Staten Island.

The Rev. Curtis Hoffman officiated at the funeral, held in Hopewell. Interment was in Highland Cemetery.

William J. Young, 77, of 25 Bank Street, died August 10 in Princeton Hospital. A former steamfitter with the J. Reed Whyte Plumbing Co. and Princeton University's Palmer Laboratory, he was a member of the Royal Arcanum Lodge, the Steamfitters Union, Local 380, and the Exempt Firemen's Association. He was a lifelong resident of Princeton.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret A. Young; a son, William J. Young Jr. of Dover; a sister, Mrs. Wilbur F. Kerr Sr., and two great-grandchildren. The Rev. William L. Tucker officiated at the service, held at the Kimble Funeral Home. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery.

Mrs. Elsie M. Wyckoff, 91, of 4 Model Avenue, Hopewell, died August 15 at her home. The widow of Job M. Wyckoff, she had lived in Hopewell 44 years, and was a member of the Methodist Church.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Brewer Johnson of Hopewell and Mrs. William S. Davis of Three Bridges; 13 grandchildren, 25 great-grandchildren and a great-great-grandchild. The funeral was held in Hopewell, with interment in Highland Cemetery.

during the next two weeks to honor the 15th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations. He reported that the activities had been organized in cooperation with the Princeton United Nations Committee.

Each playground director, Mr. Wilson said, is planning an event which will call attention to the aims of the United Nations. A series of movies on the contest has been scheduled for the High School Playground, while a quiz contest and [illegible] are on tap at Marquand Park.

The handbook program will be based on the United Nations flags, and the Erdman Avenue project will examine foreign stamps. A third quiz contest is slated for the Grover Avenue playground, while plans are still unsettled at both Riverside and Valley Road.

As the interplayground softball league enters its final two-week period, Valley Road holds a one-game edge over the High School and Jugtown, who are deadlocked for second place with 6-3 records. The first place squad sports a 7-2 mark. Riverside, Littlebrook, Grover Avenue and Harrison Park follow, in that order.

At Marquand Park last week Mary Hubler won a ping pong tournament and all the children traded various items in a "White Elephant" day, while a discussion of the membership, functions and history of the United Nations took place at the Valley Road playground. Also at Valley Road, Susan Kidd won a hat show, Tom Darby won first place in a balancing contest and chess, horse shoes, foul shooting, ping pong and checkers tournaments were held.

Sharon Anderson, Arlene Mershon, Nancy Barclay, Jean Kienzle and Rita Kienzle all won first place awards in the Erdman Avenue dress-up contest last week, while Bill Barclay won a boys' ping pong tourney at the same play area. Thirty-five Littlebrook playground children enjoyed a cookout last week, and, at the same playground, Charles Broadhead, Joy Olgyay, Steve Alexander, Marry Rossi and Ernie Pignone won first place ribbons in the hat show.

David Cook won the Riverside playground treasure hunt last week, while the Riverside children participated in an interplayground soccer game with the Valley Road boys. A field day "try-out" was held to decide who would represent Riverside in the annual interplayground event, and Fred Campbell, ping pong; David Cook, horse-shoes; Richy Rogers, chess; and Fred Campbell, home run derby; all earned the right to represent Riverside in their specialities.

Grover Avenue was the scene of a series of events in preparation for the Annual Interplayground Field Day, including ping pong, chess, checkers, horseshoes and relay races. The team of Martha Raubitschek, Beth Vigers, Sue O'Nalley, Michaile Vigers, Deborah Randall and Vicky Randall won the Harrison Park Scavenger Hunt, while Lorraine Howath won the first place ribbon for the Harrison dress-up contest. Also at Harrison, Jim Stonaker and Tommy Carroll won a three-legged race, while Al Mason and Bob Sweeney became home run champions at Harrison Park.

The High School playground's feature event last week was a contest of softball skills, with John Wheeler winning the base-running event, Sam Procaccini copping first place in the throwing for accuracy contest, and Richie Volz winning top honors in the throwing for distance event.

Jerry Lappan won a treasure hunt for children of six to nine, while Lucy Pirone won a fifty-yard dash for girls and Albert Toto won first place in the boys' division 100-yard dash. Vinnie Boccanfuso won first place in the broad jump contest.

SELF-TAX PROPOSED

Princetonians To Support U.N.

A group of sixteen Princeton residents, including three ministers, have pledged to impose a tax upon their personal incomes to support the United Nations. The group, which has signed a manifesto explaining its intentions declared its willingness to be taxed directly by the international organization.

"We ask," the petition circulated by the group declares, "that this self-imposed tax be accepted by the United Nations as a token of our willingness to be based by that body directly, that the Charter our government signed may become a pledge fulfilled." The petition will be presented to the U.N. on October 24, United Nations Day.

The group's action was inspired by a similar petition which was signed earlier this year by a group of Illinois Quakers. Several members of the Princeton group are members of the Society of Friends.

"We hereby voluntarily tax ourselves on percent of our declared taxable income for 1960, to be paid in full . . . to the United Nations," the petition reads. The Rev. Francis C. Huntington, Rev. Richard Curere and Rev. Harold Remus are among those who have pledged support for the tax. Stringfellow Barr, a noted author and Professor of Humanities at Newark College, Rutgers University, has also signed the petition.

Others signatures include: Herbert A. Pohl, Edward R. Rey, Mrs. Ann D. Johnson, Maurice H. Smith, W. Taylor Thom, Jr., Miss Esther Todd, Mrs. Mildred Kell, Mrs. Virginia Erdman, Mrs. Cora D. Smith, Mrs. Cary T. Peebles, Mrs. Emma G. Epps, and Mrs. Bertha H. Brandon.

Addressed to "Other Men and Women All Over Our Shrinking Planet," the petition reads: "Is it not true that men and women have never before found themselves all neighbors, that science and technology have made this only now the case? Are not men in every land sharing a new agony: a worldwide community, politically organized infractions, some preparing for war with atomic weapons that threaten all alike?

"If the United Nations were a common government, it would have to tax all of us in order to cope with our common problem. Since it is not, but since it symbolizes our community of interest, we in Princeton feel obligated to tax ourselves voluntarily to help promote its work for all of us."

Checks and pledges can be made payable to "United Nations" and sent to Dr. Herber A. Pohl, Treasurer, 338 Franklin Avenue, or to the Princeton Group for U.N. Self-Tax, care of The First National Bank of Princeton.

OUTBREAK UNLIKELY

Says Health Commissioner. Chances of another outbreak of Eastern Encephalitis in New Jersey this year are unlikely, according to Dr. Roscoe P. Kandle, State Commissioner of Health. In his annual report submitted recently to the Governor and Legislature, Dr. Kandle said that while "no one can justifiably predict what will occur, cases of Eastern Encephalitis have been few or none in years following outbreaks."

In 1959, New Jersey had 33 reported cases of Eastern Encephalitis, the first ever confirmed in New Jersey. None were in Princeton, but many were in shore areas not too far away.

Dr. Kandle said that "vigorous, coordinated efforts" are being taken to prevent further outbreaks of the disease. These include, he said, basic mosquito control as well as surveillance procedures for mosquitoes, birds, animals and humans.

"THE NEW SCHOOLS"

MFS-PCD. As the nation rolls with often-agonizing "population punches," and as the Princeton Area gasps for traffic relief, plans for the combined Miss Fine's and Princeton Country Day Schools on their joint 58-acre campus off the Great Road (near the site of the proposed, and controversial, expansion of the Theological Seminary) are moving forward.

Present thinking for the combined schools, according to the current issue of "Miss Fine's School Alumni Magazine", points to an enrollment of 825 students, compared with the current 520 students, and calls for lower, middle and upper schools with females in the ascendancy.

The projected program calls for the following: (1) combined lower school (Kindergarten through Grade IV), administered by Miss Fine's, 210 students; (2) separate middle and upper school for girls (Grades V through XII), 315 students; and (3) separate middle and upper school for boys (Grades V through XII), 300 students.

With more than $40,000 in hand in unsolicited gifts for the joint venture, in which initial consideration is being given to new roads and playing-fields, three committees have been brought into being: a joint committee pondering joint facilities and faculties, and sub-committees dealing with architectural plans and fund-raising.

The joint steering committee is composed of Mrs. Douglas H. MacNeil, Mrs. Robert G. Potter Jr., Mrs. J. Richardson Dilworth, Dean James I. Armstrong, Professor Marston Morse, Sidney Shea, Chester Stroup, C. William Edwards, Richard W. Baker and Mrs. Barklie McKee Henry.

Under the chairmanship of Frederick B. Adams Jr., the architectural committee, which has selected the New York firm of Moore and Hutchins, designers of Princeton University's long-planned Music Building, includes C. McKim Norton and David H. McAlpin. Initial plans are expected by September 1.

Warren P. Elmer Jr. heads the fund-raising committee, which through the efforts of a professional organization has found a "favorable" climate for a major effort in Princeton for the "sister schools." Associated with Mr. Elmer are J. Richardson Dilworth, Bernard Kilgore, Dr. Sachs-Wilmer, Mrs. Hubben Ziesing and Henry H. Patton.

RECORD HIGH SET

By N. J. Consumer Price Index. The New Jersey consumer price index hit a new all-time high in June, according to an announcement by the Department of Labor and Industry. The mark was 217.6 percent of the June, 1939, average, and represented an increase over the previous two-month period of two-tenths of one percent.

Since April the average price of food increased 0.5 percent, miscellaneous items increased by 0.2 percent, and clothing increased 0.1 percent. The increase in rent was identical to the clothing rise.

Fuel and light costs decreased 1.4 percent in June and furniture and housefurnishings dropped 0.4 percent during the same period. Over the year, the rent index had increased 1.5 percent, food had risen 1.1 percent; furniture and house furnishing, 0.7 percent, while fuel and light decreased 1.7 percent and clothing decreased 0.1 percent.

Compared with June, 1950, the month the Korean War began, miscellaneous items increased 33.8 percent; all food rose 22.7 percent; furniture and housefurnishings jumped 20.7 percent, and

TO HOLD REGISTRATION

At Lawrence Jr. High School. New students for the Lawrence Junior High School, who were not enrolled in the Township schools last June, may report at any time to the Junior High School for registration. The school is located at 2455 Princeton Pike.

School officials said it would be desirable if all new pupils registered before the opening of school on Thursday, September 8. Students should bring birth certificates, transfer cards and report cards from the schools they last attended. They are also required to have proof of compliance with local health regulations. It is suggested that if possible the student be accompanied by a parent.

Registration of all new pupils in the elementary schools, which includes kindergarten through sixth grade, will occur in the respective schools on Thursday, August 25, between 9:30 and 11:30 a.m., and 1:15 and 3:15 p.m. In case of transfer from other school districts, last year's report cards are required for grade placement.

To be eligible for enrollment in the Lawrence Township kindergarten, a child must have reached his fifth birthday by November 30, 1960. To be eligible for first grade, the pupil must have reached his sixth birthday by the same date. Proof of age is required.

All students in Lawrence Township public schools must have proof of vaccination against small-pox and have had at least three innoculations of Salk Vaccine against polio. New entrants to the kindergarten, first and second grades, must submit proof of inoculations against diphtheria, in addition to the precautions against polio and small-pox.

WADING POOLS KEPT BUSY

By Princeton Youngsters. The five wading pools for Princeton "small fry" have been in constant use this summer, providing summer fun for youngsters in both the Borough and the Township. All pools are open daily Monday through Saturday, from 1 to 5 p. m., except the Erdman Avenue wading pool, which opens an hour later each afternoon.

Princeton Borough originally built two wading pools, one on John Street, the other on Pine Street. In recent years two additional Borough pools have been added and one was constructed this summer by the Township.

The new Borough pools are located on Erdman Avenue playground end on the Harrison Street playground, while the Township pool is located at the playground on Grover Avenue, near the Shopping Center. Although all the pools are for children ten and under, those under six must be accompanied by an older child.

Supervision of the wading pools and playgrounds is provided by a staff engaged by the Playgrounds Committee, an agency of the United Community Fund. The entire summer recreation program is financed jointly by the Borough, the Township and the United Fund, while water for the pools is provided as a community service by the Princeton Water Company.

DIRECTORY TO BE SPLIT

By Telephone Company. Trenton will have its own telephone directory next year and the communities around Trenton will be grouped in a separate directory to be called "Suburban Trenton," according to an announcement made this week by the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company. This marks the first rearrangement in the "Mercer County and Vicinity" directory in over 25 years.

The change will be made because of the rapid expansion of the Delaware Valley area, company spokesmen said. The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania will deliver its own directories in the Morrisville, Yardley and New Hope sections and listings in those areas will not be included in either the Trenton or the Suburban Trenton directories.

TAXES: CONSOLIDATION STUMBLING BLOCK, Township resident, Angelo Provenzano favors consolidation because it would lower Township taxes while Mrs. Rhubart fears that consolidation would bring the converse—higher Borough taxes. For additional comments from residents of both municipalities, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: With consolidation again in the news, do you feel it would benefit Princeton?

Where asked: Around town.

William H. Flagg, Province Line Road (Township), product manager: Absolutely. Princeton, approach[illegible] 25 to 35 thousand popula[illegible]ne of the fastest expan[illegible]munities in the country. [illegible] need one body to solve all the problems rather than two bodies at possible cross purposes. I voted "no" on the referendum, but since then I've changed my mind.

Mrs. Nora Kim, 128 Spruce Street (Borough), secretary: Definitely, because I think it's silly for a small town like Princeton to have two separate governments. I believe that both the Township and the Borough would benefit from consolidation.

William K. Evans, 87 Jefferson Road (Borough), cost accountant: I was in favor of it before. At that time I thought we were pretty much even on advantages and disadvantages. Whether we are today, I have my doubts. For one reason, I'm of the opinion that Borough taxes are more favorable now than Township taxes. I would want to reexamine other aspects involved in consolidation before I committed myself. There is no question Princeton is one community, regardless of the political subdivisions.

Mrs. Gerald Herzog, 47 Harriet Drive (Borough), housewife: On the whole, I think it would be the most efficient way of running the two municipalities. I know there is a lot of controversy over the tax issue that will have to be resolved, but, sooner or later, I'm sure it will happen. So it might just as well take place now as later.

Russell L. VanCleve, 163 Jefferson Road, (Township), retired U.S. Steel executive: Yes, simply because consolidation would be the most efficient method of organizing and providing the necessary services for the entire community.

Miss Anne Williams, 34 Wiggins Street (Borough), secretary: I can only speak as a newcomer who has been in Princeton a little over a month, but it sounds like a good idea. I'm quite bewildered by this idea of two mayors, two police forces and so on. Why is this? Is there a rivalry between the two municipalities?

George G. Toole, 455 Ewing Street (Township), Theological Seminary, student assistant, Second Presbyterian Church: I think it is inevitable for the growing community. I'm in favor of it, but I know it is going to encounter a lot of opposition, primarily because many of the traditions of the town will be disrupted by it. There are also many economic implications involved in consolidation. In 1953, I had mixed emotions about it. Now I see that it is a necessity. It would give us greater efficiency by eliminating duplication.

Orville Banks, 146 John Street (Borough), shipping clerk: I do. I think for the size of the town, which is a growing town, it doesn't make much sense to have two different governments. The Borough and the Township never seem to agree on a number of things, so why not eliminate the source of the friction.

Mrs. Catharine Rhubart, 7 Leavitt Lane (Borough), housewife: Naturally, I wouldn't like to see consolidation, living in the Borough as I do, if it meant our taxes were to be raised. In other words, if consolidation isn't going to involve a lot of money, I think it would be fine.

Russell P. Carter, 689 Prospect Avenue Extension (Township), retired ticket agent for PRR: I think consolidation would benefit both communities. There are so many services that are interwoven: the high school and the fire department are in the Borough, the sewage plant is in the Township. Each has its own police force, engineer, clerk, etc. Much of this duplication could be eliminated. Originally, I was against it because the tax difference was so great. But now I think the Township is even slightly ahead of the Borough in taxation.

THE OLD ODOR CHANGETH: This blanket of old tin cans, together with other non-combustible, inorganic objects that can't be burned in the incinerator (left), may soon be covered with a six-inch layer of top soil—if a recommendation made by the State Department of Health to Borough Engineer Arthur T. Brokaw is carried out. The incinerator and waste disposal area are located on River Road in Princeton Township.

BUS ROUTES ANNOUNCED

For Lawrence Students. School bus transportation will be provided for all children in Lawrence Township who live remote from school. "Remote" is defined by the State Department of Education as two and a half miles in grades 9 and 12 and two miles in grades kindergarten through 8.

Private and parochial pupils, who will attend school in Princeton and who live on Lawrence Road, may use the Princeton High School buses which start at Greenacres on Lawrence Road at 7:25 in the morning, arriving at 7:50. Buses will leave Princeton High at 3:25. Students attending the 12th grade at Princeton High will also use the bus originating at Greenacres at 7:25.

High school students residing off Lawrenceville-Princeton Road will be required to walk to the nearest bus stop. For those living in the Bakers Basin area, arrangements have been made for them to be transferred to the Princeton High bus at Cox's Corner.

All private and parochial pupils who intend to use public school bus facilities must register at the Lawrence School superintendent's office in person or by phone.

For the present time, when legal riders do not fill the bus to capacity, courtesy riders — children who live less than the required distance from school — may be permitted to ride. If the bus becomes too crowded, those courtesy riders who live nearest the school will be the first who will be required to walk.

Bus routes, in general, will be the same as last year: children in grades one through six, who live in Nassau Estates I and who live on Darrah Lane (Norgate), will attend Lawrenceville Elementary School. Kindergarten children from these two areas will attend the afternoon session at Number Four School, the bus picking them up at 11:15.

Children from grades five and six, who live in Nassau Estates II, will walk to Nassau Estates I to board the bus to the elementary school. Children in the same grades from the Baker Basin area, who normally attend Number Four School, will take the same bus usually taken, but will not get off until they reach Slackwood School, where they will be temporarily enrolled. All other Number Four students, who normally attend that school in grades Kindergarten to four, will continue to do so.

Children from kindergarten through fourth grade in Norgate and Nassau Estates II will attend Number Four School. The bus which picks up this group leaves the Lawrence Junior High about 8 in the morning. The kindergarten children will leave school by bus about 11:15.

New seventh graders attending Lawrence Junior High will take the regular junior high bus. It may be necessary for some children living in the southern section of the township to use the Capital Transit Bus. Arrangements will be made for commutation tickets for these students after school opens.

DUMP ABUSES SCORED

By Borough Engineer Brokaw. Following the discovery of some violations by the State Department of Health, which inspected the Princeton dump and incinerator recently, Borough Engineer Arthur T. Brokaw has warned that illegal use of the dump and misuse of its facilities by individual garbage scavengers will no longer be tolerated.

Located on the last piece of Township property on River Road, the dump was inspected by Dr. Warren Rednor, district chief, environmental health, central New Jersey; John Zemlansky, solid waste disposal investigator for the State, and Mrs. Marcella Farley, Township Health Officer. The chief infraction uncovered was failure to separate organic garbage from inorganic, tin cans, bottles type of waste. Chief offenders in this area, Mr. Brokaw pointed out, are the individual garbage scavangers who, having told their customers they needn't separate their garbage, dump it without any effort to separate it themselves.

Changes in existing regulations being considered are: prevent access to the dump by unauthorized persons during the hours it is closed by erecting gates and fencing; expand the time the dump is open, presently 8 to 3:30 weekdays and 8 to 11:30 Saturdays, to include all day Saturday and possibly some weekday evening; increase the dump staff to permit the operation of a bulldozer every day instead of the present twice-a-week schedule; require all trucks using the dump to be equipped with canvas covers to prevent their loads from littering the roads and ...ves.

"We also intend to follow a recommendation of the State Health Department," Mr. Brokaw said, "by closing the open face of the dump."

Rusting tin cans and other noncombustible material that cannot be burned in the incinerator, now exposed to the air, would be covered with six inches or more of earth. When it rains, the rain water would run off the surface of dirt rather than seep through the dump and get contaminated.

Also emphasized by the Borough Engineer was a new fee that will be charged to those using the dump. Starting September 1, every licensed scavenger will have to pay one dollar for every ton of garbage he dumps. They will be billed monthly by the Borough.

JUDO IN PRINCETON

Taught by Thomas Teng. Judo is the latest thing in sports in this community, and there is a strong possibility that organized teams will be competing on both college and YMCA levels in a short while.

The man behind this new interest in judo is Thomas Teng (pronounced "Dunn"). Born in Shanghai in 1927, Teng was taught judo by the Japanese during the latters occupation of China in the Second World War. He was the only Chinese in his area allowed to attend judo classes as a resuk of his ability to speak fluent Japanese.

Teng came to this country and to Princeton in 1947 to attend the university. He graduated from Princeton's Chemistry Department in 1950, took his master's degree at Lowell Technological Institute, and is now employed as a research chemist by Personal Products in Milltown, N.J. Another "subject" he teaches besides judo is ballroom dancing.

Teng has been holding classes in judo from time to time for the last three years at the YMCA and last fall started a group interested in forming a judo team at his University. It is his ambition to train his classes at the "Y" for the all-New Jersey contests which take place in December, and to bring his University team up to a level sufficient for it to compete in the Ivy League, many of whose schools (notably Yale and Columbia) already have established judo teams.

The coach plays an extremely active part in all his classes—and enjoys it a great deal. Teng says he is keeping in shape and continuing his own study of judo "In judo," he says, "you can never think you are 'it.' There is always another rank up to go."

Teng is extremely anxious for everybody interested to come and join his groups, for he would like very much to bring this sport into its own in Princeton. From the interest already shown, it looks like he will.

PRINCETON LEADS COUNTY

In Heart Fund Campaign. Princeton topped all other communities in Mercer County with its per-capita contribution to the annual Heart Fund drive, according to the Mercer County Heart Association. The town's 18,000 residents accounted for a total of $5,905.72, only $758 than the total contributed by the en-

MAILBOX

(Ed. note—Almost once every summer, each of us receives a long-awaited letter from the daughter or son who has departed for a brief camp session, a period of repairs—dental, physical, etc. with the grandparents, or perhaps any excuse that will take him or her away for a couple of weeks. This past Monday, such a message arrived at TOWN TOPICS, addressed properly to a mother and/or dad who happens to work here. Sounds typical, doesn't it?)

Dear Mom and-or Dad,

Hi! I arrived okay and I had a nice trip, despite the unreserved seat which meant that a sailor —a U.S. sailor, God bless him— had to use me because he couldn't offord a pillow. The train made good time, and so did the sailor. Both arrived in St. Louis early, but Uncle Oral was there to meet us (rather, me.)

I've been riding horses ever since I reached the farm, and my legs are so sore I have to walk funny. But the soreness will go away with more exercise. Grandma and grandpa say maybe you don't give me enough to do at home.

Did Billy come over and stay with Mom? He said he and Conrad would. That's pretty crazy!

I lit up a cigarette and got all kinds of lectures about how the nice young ladies here in southern Illinois don't smoke. But then, I'm no lady—I'm ———— daughter.

Must go now. Write soon, but, if you're as busy as usual, just send money.

Your loving daughter,
!;&!*-

(Ed. note No. 2 — Mom and Billy have gone to Skillman for two quiet weeks in the country. Conrad wishes he hadn't. If you think it's pretty crazy, you don't know the half of it! And who the devil is *(%$&@?)

Question Of The Week

Mrs. Colin Pittendrigh 187 Prospect Avenue (Borough), housewife: Yes, I do. I wasn't active in the last campaign, but I can't see any sense in having two governments and all this duplication. I didn't feel very strongly about it when it first came up, but I still would have voted "yes."

OLD BARN TO BECOME A HOME: Pending final approval of the Township Planning Board, the massive brick barn of the old Pyne Estate will be restored and turned into a home by Patrick J. Kelleher, director of the University's Art Museum. The towered structure, a familiar sight to passersby on Mercer Road, has been unused for a number of years. (Staff Photo)

Angelo Provenzano, 42 Carnahan Place (Township), postal clerk: I do because it would lower the taxes. We in the Township pay too much in taxes. We know consolidation will lower them and benefit the whole town.

David Mathey, Pretty Brook Road (Township), investor: Yes, I'm in favor of it. It would help Princeton keep pace with Trenton. There are a lot of tax problems that would have to be solved first, though.

Mrs. Henry Steffens, 72 Murray Place (Borough), housewife: I think so. With more and more people coming to Princeton, I feel these new residents would be better represented under one municipal government then they would under two. It's getting too crowded here, especially in the Borough, which has no room to expand.

Mario Nini, 17 Henry Street (Township), painter: Yes, I think it would accomplish a lot. Instead of having two of everything, it would put the town on one level.

Edward V. Baldwin, 20 Spruce Street (Borough) retired accountant: I'd like to see it happen. It would be less expensive if they were combined. There is no more room for houses in the Borough and taxes in the Township are way up. It would be better for the library, better for the service agencies, better for everybody if there were consolidation.

tire City of Trenton on Heart Sunday.

"We think the people of Princeton did a magnificent job in responding to the annual Heart Fund appeal," said County Heart Association president Dr. Ralph N. Cagan. Princeton area campaign chairman Archie G. Lumis and his corps of volunteer workers received praise for their enthusiasm and energy.

The 1960 drive brought in $35,227 from Mercer county. Contributions by communities were: Trenton, $6,654; Princeton, $3,905 West Windsor, $618; Hamilton Township, $4,729; Ewing Township, $2,143; Lawrence Township, $1,095; Hightstown, $1,109; Pennington, $520; Hopewell Borough, $432; and Washington Crossing-Titusville, $388. Other funds came from memorials and special events.

Money raised in the Heart Fund drive is used to finance research by the American Heart Association and New Jersey Heart Association, and for numerous community services to assit those recovering from heart diseases. The rheumatic fever clinics conducted by Mercer County hospitals are one of the largest of such projects.

UNIVERSITY SEEKS ROOMS

For graduate Students. Princeton University is looking for help to provide housing for the bumper crop of graduate students due this fall. It hopes the community will assist in accomodating the expected influx.

With the University facilities for graduate student housing already exhausted, the waiting list includes 122 single applicants and a large number of families. In addition, some 45 faculty families more than be accomodated are registered at the University's real estate department.

The housing shortage has been caused by an increase of 60 in the graduate school enrollment, bringing the total to 860. Also, there are 40 visiting fellows and 156 new faculty members to be accomodated.

Noting the diversity of races and colors represented in the graduate student body and the faculty of the University, President Robert F. Goheen pointed out that for them, "America is represented by Princeton while they are here; for those who come from abroad, Princeton is often their principal experience of America, while others are native Americans who have experienced elsewhere varying degrees of difficulty because of their color." He urged that the Princeton community "accept them on their merits as individuals."

Princeton residents with rooms or apartments for rent should send the University's real estate department a description of the premises and location, the amount of rental and any other details. The University will act as a clearing-house for the information of its incoming members.

Report from THE MAYOR

OPEN HOUSE SCHEDULE — The regular weekly "Tell it to the Mayor!" session will be held this Friday, August 19th from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. In response to a number of requests, the day will be shifted to Thursday, with sessions scheduled for Thursday, August 25th and Thursday, September 1st. No appointment is ever required for these informal meetings.

IN THE TILL — Princeton's property tax collections, as reported by Deputy Collector-Treasurer Patterson, continue to reflect a healthy local economy. Only $7.59 remains as the uncollected balance of the 1958 tax billings of $1,416,493.41. Of the 1958 taxes, 99.66 percent are accounted for. Two-thirds of the 1960 taxes were collected by July 31st. A rather welcome note: $7,083.08 are included in the report under the special heading "1961 Pre-Paid Taxes."

SLURRY? At last week's meeting of Mayor and Council, bids were opened for an item that has put a new word in the Borough Hall vocabulary — slurry. "Slurry" is a recent development, reported to have been successful in Rochester, N.Y. and Inglewood, Calif., which prolongs the life of asphalt pavements with a special seal. With age, asphalt tends to crack and deteriorate.

In the past, towns have treated the cracks with various surface applications. The old methods, however, have tended to raise the street height over the years and wipe out the curb. The slurry method places little more than a paint coat over the surface, filling the cracks and forming — if all the predictions hold true—a firm, dense, nonskid surface. If the bids are approved by state highway authorities, the slurry experiment will be watched with considerable interest by other municipalities. Meanwhile, Borough officials have their fingers crossed. "Slurry" will have to earn its way into the Princeton vocabulary.

A WELFARE PROBLEM—Police Chief Mondone's action to transfer from police to welfare jurisdiction the serious problem of dealing with "lodgers" received widespread comment. Behind the Chief's concern was a finding in the MacNamara report that "Jail is used continually as a lodging house for itinerant vagrants — sometimes several in a night. These men are not properly identified, could be wanted criminals, and create a liability against which the borough is not adequately insured."

A BETTER SOLUTION — The proposed joint meeting of the Welfare and Public Safety committees should find a more effective and humane solution to this problem. MacNamara's recommendation: "Discontinue taking "lodgers" — fingerprint and book vagrants and refer those persons temporarily without funds or lodging to appropriate welfare agencies." The Chief's action has brought into focus a concern that the Borough has had —but overlooked—since 1929.

A KEY QUESTION — A special committee of the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce is working with Council's Committee on the Future of Princeton to work out answers to a key question affecting extension of off-street parking facilities. When receipts from a proposed off-street facility will not fully amortize the investment in land and engineering costs, how should the "deficit" be financed? To what extent should this be a cost borne by all taxpayers of the community? To what extent should the affected businesses contribute in return for the obvious benefit of the facility?

mers, beginners and swimmers. Races include relays, egg races, and a greased watermelon event.

Members of Troop 43, in addition to winning the water event, received decorations at week's end. Douglass Griggs, Edward Williams and Jack Trudal all passed their second class requirements, while merit badges were earned by William Wallace, Gary Dean, Barkley Resser, Glenn Christiansen, Arthur Buckland, Elliot Starks, Glenn Brown and William Lavder.

DANCE SPONSORED

By Republican Club. H. K. Sanders, president of the Princeton Republican Club, has announced that his group will sponsor an admission-free, "dance under the stars" party on Friday evening, August 26. The affair will be held on the grounds behind the YMCA on Avalon Place, and music will be supplied by Douglas Griggs and his band.

According to Mr. Sanders, persons of all ages are invited to attend, but the dance is being held primarily for the 18-30 age-group. Japanese lanterns and other party decorations are planned and free refreshments will be served.

The dance will begin at 8 p.m. and will conclude at midnight. In the event of rain, the affair will be held the same evening in the Chambers Street Fire House.

TO ELECT TRUSTEES

At Willows Swim Club. Officers of the Willows Swim Club of South Brunswick Township have announced that the club will hold elections for permanent trustees at a meeting on Thursday, August 25, at 8:30 p.m. The meeting will be held at the club.

The nominating committee will present the following slate of candidates, it was announced last week: three years—Arthur Holgate, Robert Wessel and Elizabeth Robinson; two years—William Perkins, Zelda Shapiro and William Eldred; one year—Edward Bannon, Edna Kaminski and Clem Krueger.

Nominations by petition may be submitted if the petitioner has obtained 20 signatures of qualified members. The petitions must be filed with Richard Chaiken, club trustee, no later than 7 p.m. this Friday. No floor nominations will be accepted at the August 25 meeting.

calling attention to the fact that free library services for many persons will be curtailed unless the Congress acts to extend the Library Services Act. "When Congress recessed on July 3," Miss Barr declared, "few people realized that through its failure to act on the Library Services Bill millions of Americans living in rural areas faced the loss of their free library service.

"The Library Services Act became law in June 1956," the statement continued, "providing Federal Funds for library development in rural areas through 1961." Because of the law some 30 million Americans "have gained new and improved public library service." According to Miss Barr's statement approximately one and one-half million of these who benefit from the law live in New Jersey.

"New Jersey has received about 297 thousand federal dollars to assist rural library development," Miss Barr stated. "Some of the money has gone to improve all types of services rendered to public libraries by the State Library's Extension Agency.

"The value of this program to our rural community has been notable as a result of the additional staff, equipment, and books provided by federal funds," the "Princeton librarian asserted. "Unless H.R. 12125 to extend the Library Services Act beyond June 1961 is passed by the House during the 86th Congress, the New Jersey program and similar ones throughout the United States will come to a halt and millions of people in rural areas will be without books."

Miss Barr points out that favorable legislation has already passed the Senate. In the House, she notes, 52 different bills were introduced, but the Rules Committee of the House failed to allow the bill to reach the floor for debate and subsequent action.

"Extension of the Library Service Act is still possible," Miss Barr concludes. The rules can be suspended in the House on August 22 by a two-third majority of the House quorum.

THE PRICE WAS RIGHT

Princeton Woman Big Winner. A good eye for prices proved valuable for Mrs. F. A. Rechif of 32 Horner Lane last week. Appearing on NBC's television program "The Price is Right," she won a total of $6000 worth of merchandise, with items ranging from a trained collie to a plane trip to Lisbon.

Starting out on Thursday, she won a set of knitted blouses and skirts, jewelry, perfume, shoes, a sewing machine, a candlestick centerpiece, a refrigerator and a 14-foot boat with outboard motor and trailer. Then, on Friday, the Princeton housewife earned the collie, a white fox stole, 24 cotton blouses, a place setting of china and silverware for 12, a freezer and 200 packages of frozen foods, a curved sofa, and, finally, the jet trip to Lisbon.

"Thursday was good but Friday was better," Mrs. Rechif explained, adding that "it's all very wonderful." She brought the dog and stole home with her Friday, but the bulkier items will be shipped.

To win, Mrs. Rechif had to compete with four contestants, guess the correct price of each item. Although she was the big winner for the two days, a return engagement on Monday didn't net a single additional victory.

One in 3000. A former music teacher at the Nassau Street School, Mrs. Rechif is now the mother of two children. Her husband is a patent attorney for the Sun Oil Company in Philadelphia.

"My chances of getting on the program were about one in 3000," Mrs. Rechif said. She explained that she was one of a large number who waited to go through a selection process.

Mrs. Rechif isn't sure quite what to do with her winnings. Some will definitely be of use, but others, such as the large sofa, may prove difficult to deal with, she explained.

In at least one instance, the winnings have proved to be an embarrassment of riches. The family already had a dog—another collie.

PICK AREA RESIDENTS

For Grand Jury Panel. Of 50 names selected this past week by Mercer County officials for the September term of the Mercer Grand Jury, no less than 7 were Princeton area residents. Harvey C. Emery of Pretty Brook Road, president of the First National Bank of Trenton, headed the local list, but he will probably be one of those eliminated for business reasons before a final panel of 23 is picked September 7.

In addition to Mr. Emery, the following were tapped from this area: Edward C. Bill, 26 Alexander Street; Mrs. Hanna Fanta-Fantova, 112 Alexander; Mrs. Lucy L. Stewart, 9 Hilltop Drive; Mrs. Barbara Johnson, 540 Ewing Street; John A. Valentine, 45 Cuyler Road; Clifford A. Erickson, and Arthur Miller, West Windsor; John A. Neady, Clifford L. Dennis, Walter F. Halderman, Carl J. Wilson, Robert W. Etherington and Charles C. Townsend Jr., Hopewell; and David Barbour Jr., Mrs. Elizabeth Blackwell and T. Hart Anderson 3d, Pennington.

Joseph C. Magee, 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie P. Magee of 17 Olden Avenue, was among the more than 1600 entrants in the National Model Airplane Championships held the last week in July at the Dallas Naval Air Station, Texas. BRISTOL EDITS NEW BOOK

On Corporate Image. Lee H. Bristol, Jr., of 210 Mercer Street, recently appointed trustee of the Princeton Public Library, is the editor of a new book which was published in June by Schribner's. Entitled "Developing the Corporate Image," Mr. Bristol's book consists of a series of 30 articles written by national business and professional leaders.

The contributors, who hail from such places as MIT, Johnson and Johnson, the New York Stock Exchange, CBS and The Denver Post, discuss the concept of the controlled corporate image, how to find out what firm's image is at present and how best to approach the problem of changing that image if it turns out to be unfavorable. Four primary areas of public opinion, all of which contribute to the "image" of a given firm, are considered in the volume—stockholders, employees, vendors, and buyers.

Mr. Bristol, active for some time in Princeton civic affairs, is the Director of Public Relations of the Products Division of the Bristol-Myers Company, and has conducted seminars on public relations for the Merchants and Manufacturers Association of Southern California.

The author of "Seed for a Song" and many articles in national magazines, Mr. Bristol is the composer of hymns and organ music. He intends to donate royalties earned by his latest book to the Creative Education Foundation.

PHS FOOTBALL OUTLOOK-I

(This is the first of two articles on Princeton High School's football prospects for the 1960 season.)

Time for a Change? In most places around the earth, a shift to the left denotes a political program. At Princeton High School, a shift to the left — proposed by Joe Jingoli, head football coach —may mean pigskin prosperity. And the man behind the proposal wants it known right here and now that his motives are strictly non-political, though his devotion to the shift may prove as vital to his success in 1960 as it has to the success of assorted chiefs of state in years past.

Explaining his unusual (and not un-American) situation this week, Jingoli noted that the leading contenders for the two key positions in his single-wing system, tailback and quarterback, are both southpaws. "Normally, seventy-five percent or more of our plays go to the right," the coach pointed out. "With lefties running the show this year, we'll have to switch our whole attack. We'd be foolish if we didn't."

Jingoli, about to enter his 15th campaign as the Little Tigers' able field marshal, admits the leftist movement probably will confuse some of the early opponents on the seven-game PHS schedule, and thereby serve an extra purpose in forcing improvised defenses. But he also thinks it may confuse a number of his less experienced operatives, since they will be obliged to reverse most of the things they have been doing in preceding seasons.

The shift leftward, if adopted, promises to represent a "calculated risk" — one which Jingoli and his veteran coaching associates will know more about when their Blue and White charges take on a pre-campaign scrimmage foe or two several weeks hence. They hope it will start reaping dividends then, or at least by September 24, date of Princeton's opener against Peddie (minus post-graduate performers, as per a previous agreement). The prep huskies from Hightstown are back on the PHS slate in place of Mt. Holly, which now has too many commitments to keep in its South Jersey loop.

A Problem of Depth. On the surface, it looks as though the Little Tigers are "loaded" for defense of their Mercer County crown, a mythical yet much-sought laurel which came their way—along with a fine 5-2-1 record — only after some superb play (and two victories) during the final 72 hours of a hectic 1959 season. The returning squad is senior-dominated and includes 11 lettermen, well-spread with seven up front and four in the backfield.

Jingoli insists the surface must be scratched in order for loyal community supporters of the Blue and White to understand why he is already hunting for a pill that works twice as fast as Anacin. There are seniors, to be sure, but many of them are refugees from last year's junior varsity, with little or no varsity time logged. There are 11 "P" wearers, certainly, but only one of them was a regular starter with the 1959 offensive platoon and only four were regulars on defense.

It's a simple problem of depth, or lack of it, Jingoli moans. However, such a problem is normal at the high school level—and there is no denying that exactly 11 returning letter-winners managed to spark a title-earning PHS club back in the fall of 1957.

If the two-platoon blueprint is going to develop properly this year, Princeton must receive substantial help from two to five sophomores. Last autumn's frosh team was no world-beater, but there are always a few worthy competitors who progress more rapidly than their brethren—and Jingoli has his fingers crossed. The head coach believes wholeheartedly in two-platooning—he feels an average but fresh unit holds the edge over a good but tired one—and, at the moment, he is counting on only two players for emergency duty both ways.

As for transfer students, Jingoli has heard no mention of any triple-threat 200-pounders heading for the hallowed halls of PHS. He is a realist and is not counting on the sudden appearance of grid heroes from out-of-state. He's available, however, if they are.

LEFTWARD HO! Joe Jingoli, boss of the pigskin politburo at Princeton High School, calls his latest ideas unusual, but definitely not un-American.

Never-Ending Cycle. Jingoli is still amused—well, fairly amused —by the cycle which appears never-ending at Princeton High. If he's got the makings of a strong backfield, his line crop is thin. If he has rock-ribbed giants from end to end, there's no one behind them who can run with the ball or even throw it. No interruption in the cycle is anticipated in 1960.

"The backfield is there," according to Jingoli, "lefthanded or not." Speed, power and versatility are some of the words he uses to describe what his single-wing engineers possess. "But I'm worried about our line, especially our offensive line. We've got a big building job to accomplish in a very short time. I'd say we have at least four holes up front that could prove difficult to fill."

The head coach and his associates are delighted with the spirit exhibited already by members of the '60 squad, many of whom are working out informally each evening under the guidance of the team's co-captains. Inasmuch as the coaches cannot assume command until September 1, it is encouraging for them to realize that the majority of candidates will be in reasonably good shape when they report for the initial practice session.

That session, according to Jingoli, is set for the morning of September 1 — "just as soon as the boys have passed their physicals," slated for the PHS nurse's office at 8.30. Those trying out for the varsity (75 are expected) are urged to bring a suit of old clothes for the first practice, since all cannot be fitted with uniforms the first day. "We will conduct only one workout a day," the coach commented. "We've abandoned the old idea of morning and afternoon sessions until the opening of school, believing that it's much better to shoot for a single, good ninety-minute effort."

PAIR WINS

Women's Golf Tourney. The team of Mrs. Alan Sagner of Mountain Ridge and Mrs. Joseph Rudnick of Dumping Brook combined last week to win the first annual Garden State Women's Golf Association better ball of partners match play tournament. Playing on the host Springdale Golf Course, the winning pair defeated Mrs. Joseph Frelinghuysen Jr., of Somerset Hills and Mrs. James J. Whelan of Springdale in the final round by a score of 2 and 1.

A total of 16 entrants, comprising eight teams, entered the three-day tournament. The Association hopes to make the tourney an annual affair.

In addition to the final-round opponents, the team of Mrs. Albert Lapesel of Picatinny Arsenal and Mrs. Fred R. Malone of East Orange, and Mrs. James Warga of Springdale and Mrs. Howard Leake of Tjenton participated in the semi-final round.

MEN-IN-WAITING

PAC Watches Others. Having completed their regular 1960 schedule by splitting a pair of final-week games with Hightstown, members of the Princeton Athletic Club sat in the wings and waited this week as the Tri-County Baseball League's three other clubs took whacks at each other. Princeton has the cellar position cinched, but, at press time, a three-way deadlock for the No. 1 spot remained a possibility.

Montgomery Township (9-4) will replay two tie contests before week's end — one with South Brunswick (8-6) and one with Hightstown (also 8-6). If Montgomery should drop both games, additional engagements will be required to determine the loop's final standings.

Presuming the three-way deadlock does not develop, the league's post-season playoffs will finally begin next Tuesday evening. The first playoff here, between the PAC and the runner-up nine, will be held at Princeton High next Wednesday evening. Montgomery, the expected champion, will wage its initial playoff round against the circuit's third-place finisher.

Last week, the Princeton entry turned back Hightstown, 9-4, before losing a Sunday make-up game with the same opponent, 6-1. Highlight of league play last week—and perhaps a playoff omen—was Dick Stahl's no-hit pitching win for Hightstown over Montgomery.

PHILLIPS-ANDOVER TO MEET

Lawrenceville On Gridiron. For the first time in 30 years, Lawrenceville School and Phillips-Andover Academy will meet each other on the gridiron. The two schools have scheduled a home and home series, the first game of which will be played October 3 at Lawrenceville.

The complete 1960 football schedule for Lawrenceville: Blair Academy, Oct. 1; Phillips-Andover, 8; Peddie School, 15, away; Admiral Farragut Academy, 22; Mercersburg Academy, 29, away; Choate, Nov. 5; and Hill School, 12, away.

HOPE PRACTICE ON CARNEGIE MAKES PERFECT ON ALBANO: After several weeks of intensive workouts here on Lake Carnegie, the U.S. Olympic Rowing eight-oared team left this week for Rome, where victory will be sought on nearby Lake Albano. Louis Lindsey, coach of the Navy crew, figures his club will have to go all-out to avert America's first Olympic defeat in 40 years, since Germany's entry has cracked European records consistently in recent months. Pictured in the U.S. boat on Carnegie are (bow to stern) Mark Moore, Warren Sweetser III, Gayle Thompson, Joseph Baldwin, Captain Peter Bos, Howard Winfree, Robert Wilson, Lyman Perry and William Long, coxswain.

HUNTING TO OPEN

Fall hunting seasons in New Jersey will open September 1 on State marshlands, it was announced this week by the Fish and Game Division of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development. An open season on clapper rail will run until November 9 on New Jersey's salt marshes and will offer hunters the first fall opportunity for the harvest of game birds.

Other rails and gallinules will also become legal game on September 1. The daily bag limit of rails and gallinules is 15, with a possession limit of 30. Sora rails are not included in this category, it was announced. Daily bag and possession limits on sora rail are 25. Shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset, standard time.

For Holy Trinity Lutheran, A new building for the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church is going up on the corner of Princeton Pike and Allen Lane, Lawrenceville. The $130,000 structure will provide for the church itself, a study, an office, three classrooms and a fellowship hall with basement.

Construction was begun on Easter, with completion expected by Christmas. The congregation, which was situated in Trenton until about five years ago, has been holding services in the Lawrenceville Township Junior High School.

The building now under construction will measure 92 by 180 feet overall and is being built of brick and laminated arches. It is planned as the first step in a future expansion which would provide space for a day school.

ALMOST LIKE AUTUMN

All you tired mothers
Cheer!
Back to school
Will soon be here!

—Ive Habit

Actually, the weather yesterday was so autumn-like that many Princeton mothers began to think seriously about sending their offspring off to school. The thermometer never went as high as 80—unusual for this point in August —and the situation prompted one wag to suggest that we now have Indian Fall in the summer as well as Indian Summer in the fall, the former presented to us by an Indian (but natch.)

Summer or fall, the outlook for the coming weekend is good. We should enjoy clear, blue skies, moderate temperatures and an absence of rain. We don't have any football locally, but, otherwise, you might think it's almost like autumn.

Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Sun., 11, "The Commandments of God," the Rev. Yancey L. Sims.

Princeton Methodist. Sun., 10, morning worship, the Rev. Thomas T. Love, graduate student at Princeton University, guest speaker; 10, Sunday School for nursery and grades 1, 2 and 3.

Sports In Princeton

POST 76, ENGINE 3 VIE For Police League Title. Semi-final playoff winners in the Police Youth League, Post 76 and Engine No. 3 will fight it out in a three games series for the League championship. The third game, if necessary, will be played Friday at Fitzpatrick Field at 6.

Last Wednesday evening Post 76 earned a spot in the finals by beating the Sportsman again, 9-1, to sweep their series with the losers, 2-0. Bruno Fiabane's home run paced the victor's hitting attack while Kenneth Turner's four-bagger accounted for Post 76's only run.

The same evening Engine No. 3 evened their series with Engine No. 1, 6-4 on the strength of Thomas Callighan's two-hitter, one of them a home run by Bumpy Adams. Pitcher Callighan, the game's hero, also hit a two-run homer to provide the margin of victory.

Two days later, Engine No. 3 shaded Engine No. 1, 3-2 to take the series, two games to one. Thomas Callighan, Craig Wood and David Tesseian each had two hits for the winners. Albie Toto, hurler for No. 3, limited the losers to four hits.

OUT OF GAS

Sportsmen New Falters. Having won the last two games of the regular campaign in sensational fashion to tie with Plainsboro for first place in the Men's Softball League, the Sportsmen finally ran out of gas this past week. They were beaten badly by Plainsboro in a special contest to determine the No. 1 club, then were shut out, 10-0, as the best-of-three playoffs commenced Tuesday evening.

Sannino's, the loop's fourth-place finisher, administered the whitewash job as playoff action started. Eight hits by the victorious club were productive, but errors by the Sportsmen also aided the Sannino cause.

In another playoff game, third place, Green Gables upset Plainsboro, 7-4. The winners of the two playoff series will meet next week for the league title.

wart in "Broken Arrow," while the aforementioned Mr. Scott was co-starred with Ann Southern in "Shadow on the Wall" at the Garden, which was also dusting off 11-year-old "Gunga Din" for another run.

In sports, it was upset week as the fabulous Phantoms were routed, 10-1, by Pete's A.C. in A Softball League action and AVC's win streak was ended at 10 straight, 6-5 by ETS in the B loop . . . Mrs. Cynthia Greeley became the 1960 women's tennis champion of Princeton by defeating Mrs. Barbara Ridgely on the University Courts, 6-2, 6-2 . . . the victor and her husband, Dr. David Greeley, defending title-holders in mixed doubles, drew a first-round bye in the doubles tournament.

There's a Behind-the-Scenes Story in the Advertisements You See Every Week for These Vine-Fresh Vegetables and Other Specials Offered by Princeton Area Food Markets

Why Does
TOWN TOPICS
Carry So
MUCH MORE
Food Advertising
Than Other
Princeton Newspapers?

BECAUSE:

Food store advertising is among the easiest in which to check direct results. Steady sales of perishable items are a must in the retail food field—and in the Princeton area, direct results are most easily traceable to TOWN TOPICS. That's why every week in the year, TOWN TOPICS carries more food advertising than any other Princeton Newspaper.
